

Beyond Grades

Revolutionizing Evaluation and Empowering Educators

Subtitle: Evaluate, Aggregate & Analyze

The Problem - The Unseen Burden of Evaluation

- The Teacher-Student Ratio: In India, the average teacher has to manage a large number of students, making individual attention a challenge. Manually evaluating answer sheets for every student is a monumental and time-consuming task.
 - Human Fatigue & Inconsistency: After grading several papers, fatigue inevitably sets in. This can lead to unintentional inconsistencies in evaluation, no matter how dedicated the teacher is.
 - Lost Opportunities for Insight: The primary goal of an exam is to understand a student's grasp of a subject. But when the focus is just on grading, we lose the opportunity to identify specific learning gaps and patterns for each child.
 - Student Hesitation: Many students feel hesitant to question their grades, fearing scrutiny or judgment. This creates a communication barrier and leaves valuable learning moments unexplored.
